Choice Poetry.

The Drunkard's Remorse.

BY J. T.

I remember, I remember,
When in childhood's happy days,
As I knelt beside my mother,
Angels said, "behold he prays!"
I remember that loved image,
Sainted mother! here no more,
But I seem to hear thy message,
Whispered as in days of yore.

I remember when my father
Took me gently on his knee,
Pressed me to his heart in prayer,
That from sin I might be free;
Told me many pleasing stories,
Pointed to a Savior's blood,
Showed me scenes of endless glories,
They shall see, who honor God.

I remember ties that bound me,
Ties of purity and truth,
Dearest friends that flocked around me,
In the halcyon days of youth,
One among them I remember,
Deep ensconced within my heart,
Dearest! purest! truest ever,
Death alone from me could part,

I remember days of gladness,
Prospects bright, and hopes so high,
Days without a shade of sadness,
Not a cloud obscured my sky.
Wife and children then did bless me,
None did rue our plighted vow,
Angel forms did then caress me
Where are those bright angels now?

Where's my wife? my father? mother?
Darling children, where are they?
Where the friends that round me gathered?
All from me are torn away.
Where are those sweet days of gladness?
Where the hopes and prospects bright?
Buried in the gloom of sadness,
Lost in thickest, blackest night.

In the giddy round of pleasure,
Once the siren lured my soul,
Bade me taste the insidious poison,
From the fascinating bowl.
But one sip,—she said, entreating,
For the fashion—that is all,
Once I tasted—she exulting,
Grasped me in her iron thrall.

Now I hear my mother pleading,
And my father—best of men!
Wife and children interceding,
"Father do not drink again,"
Crazed with wine, I madly scorned them,
Trampled on their earnest prayers,
Raving, I reviled and spurned them,
Laughed and mocked their burning tears.

I have slain them—cursed murderer!
Cain-like, both my hands are red,
Reeking with the blood of mother,
Father, wife and children—dead!
I beheld them broken-hearted,
Every look my soul did chide,
Oh! those ghastly forms departed
See! they haunt me—hide me! hide!

Gracious heaven! my brain is reeling,
Angels mock me—devils deride—
Men despise—all earth is jeering,
Crawling worms my soul do chide.
Hell's deep thunders round me muttering
Thrill my heart—I'm sad, I,m sad,
Reason from her throne is tottering.
O my God, I'm mad! I'm MAD!!

Black despair her mantle drawing,
In its folds ensbrouds me quite,
Hope has fled, my soul forsaking
To the gloom of endless night,
Not for me is heaven's sweet story,
I am wrecked, and tempest tossed,
Drunkards shall not taste of glory,
I am lost! O God, I'm LOST!!

Address of the Democratic State Central Committee of Pennsylvania.

ROOMS OF THE DEMOCRATIC STATE COMMITTEE, 931 Arch Street Philadelphia,

To the People of Pennsylvania:

The Democratic State Committee, duly impressed with the importance of the approaching election, and desirous of discharging the duties imposed upon them in all suitable ways, propose to address to you a few sincere, earnest words.

We desire, by the election of Mr. Pershing to the bench of the Supreme Court to secure a judge of ability and high character, who will be impartial in his great office, and will make the Constitution and the laws the rule of his judgment and action.

The election of Asa Packer, to the office of Governor, is recommended by many considerations of high moment, to some of which we propose to call your attention.

Reform is needed in the State government, and he is a fit man to introduce and uphold it. For he will come to the performance of public duty, armed with integrity as with a garment, with a knowledge of the business interests of our people, and with an earnest purpose to do good and resist evil.

What has been amiss in legislation and in Executive action at Harrisburg in recent years, will be rebuked by his election. For he has had no concern and no sympathy with the mismanagement of the State finances and with the enactment of odious or improvident laws; he has been engaged in honorable enterprises of great public utility, and has given his sympathies always to honorable men, whether in business or in political life. He has also much knowledge of public life and of public men. This is an indispensable qualification for the office of Governor or of President. Without it, Executive service must be badly performed or neglected.

Asa Packer represents well one practical effect of our free institutions. A penniless youth, and a man of humble position in the earlier years of his manhood, he has achieved a prominent position among the business men of the country, and distinction as a political man. He now appears before you, not unsolicited, as a candidate for the highest office in the State government, and holds as such the respect and confidence of his fellow-citizens, more truly and firmly than could a man of high rank and proud lineage in a country of despotic or aristocratical institutions. In his case, popular confidence is based entirely upon the solid foundation of real merit; tried throughout an eventful career and manifested in honorable, useful and magnanimous action.

Asa Packer, in the Gubernatorial chair, will give to us what we greatly need; a strong point of defense and security against violent, unjust, ill-considered, selfish and partisan laws. He is above all baseness, independent of all cliques and "Rings," and as incapable of conscious injustice to political opponents as of unworthy subserviency to political friends. He will be just, firm, faithful and tolerant in his great office, if he shall be charged with its duties, and will pursue therein no selfish object whether of ambition or of private gain.

Asa Packer is a true representative of the industrial interests of the State and of our great public improvements. His relations with both are extensive, and his views regarding them enlightened and liberal. He will favor and aid the development of the former and all possible extensions of the latter, so that our people shall be prosperous and be enabled the better to bear the great burden of their public debt.

The present canvass has not been one of excitement or of noisy effort. But we believe that earnest thought has been directed by our people to the issues involved in it, and to the respective claims of the candidates before them. There is a disposition in the public mind (and a proper and timely one) to pass from sectional and adventitious questions connected with the recent war, and bestow attention upon financial, monetary and industrial ones, which come home to our people in their everyday pursuits and avocations. Money is scarce for many legitimate and useful investments; our taxation is in many respects unequal, and upon some objects oppressive; the rates of interest upon public loans are improvident; the expenses of government (both State and Federal) are excessive, if not profligate, and the relations between capital and labor are uneasy and disturbed; and then there is unquestionably a general lowering of the moral tone of public life below the level of former times.

For remedy for these manifest evils (which none can deny, and all good men must lament,) the people must act with energy and wisdom. They must call better men than they now have to places of public trust, and they must break up the monopoly of power by the Republican party. The election of Asa Packer will point to reform and improvement in our affairs, and will go a great way toward securing them. For it will mean that integrity and capacity—high honor, spotless character, business ability, experience in affairs, and a charitable, tolerant and magnanimous spirit are appreciated by the people, and that men possessing them will be secured whenever possible, for the public service; and it will mean also, that a party in possession of unchecked power for many years, whose performances in the administration of government are unsatisfactory, will be called upon to surrender its power, or to divide that power with another party more faithful or more competent.

The Harrisburg Convention claimed for our State the right and privilege of determining for herself the rules of popular suffrage within her limits. This right, which was recognized in the Republican platform of 1868, is one of vital importance, and should never be surrendered or waived. For if the right to determine whether Africans, Asiatics or Indians, shall be electors of a State or not, be taken away from the States—no matter in what way—their character as sovereign free States is clearly gone from them. We are not so directly interested in the adjustment of suffrage in the Southern States under the reconstruction laws of Congress, as in the general question of State power over the subject of suffrage. Though we may acquiesce in the former as an accomplished fact—as an exceptional exercise of Federal power over seceded States which is beyond recal—we must claim for the latter an enduring interest and vitality. Our brethren of California have declared at their recent election that they will not agree that Congress shall have power to create Japanese and Chinese voters for that State. They claim for themselves entire jurisdiction over the subject of suffrage within their State, and will not surrender it. Nor will we surrender our similar right, if we shall be wisely instructed by history and by reason, and shall be regardful of our interests and our honor.

The country desires not only peace, but all the fruits of peace—restored concord, restored prosperity, and a complete restoration of constitutional rule in all the States. We seek for this; we desire this with all our hearts. So far then as national policy is concerned, our cause is the cause of peace and of good will among men; of pure and just government conformed to fundamental law and inspired by a humane and christian spirit, and it is opposed only to mismanagement and wrong—to the rude rule of the military in time of peace and to the plunder of the people.

By order of the Democratic State Committee.

WM. MUTCHLER, Chairman.

CLERICAL ANECDOTE.—The Rev. Samuel Clawson, a Methodist preacher of eccentric manners, sometimes called the "Wild Man," was very popular in Western Virginia some twenty years ago. He was cross-eyed and wiry made and very dark-skinned for a white man. At times he was surprisingly eloquent, always excitable, and occasionally extravagant. He once accompanied a brother minister, Rev. Mr. R., a prominent pastor, in a visit to a colored church. Mr. R. gave the colored preacher the hint and, of course Clawson was invited to preach. He did so, and during the sermon, set the impulsive Africans to shouting all over the house. This, in turn, set Clawson to extravagant words and actions, and he leaped out of the pulpit like a deer, and began to shake the hands of the colored brethren and mix in quite happily. He wept for joy. Then, pressing through the crowd, he found brother R., and sitting down beside him, he threw his arms around his neck, and with tears streaming down his cheeks he said:

"Brother R., I almost wish I had been born a nigger. These folks have more religion than we have."

"Well, well," said brother R., "you came so near it that you nee'n't cry about it."

"BRIDGET, how came you to burn the bread so?" "Och! an' is it burned it is? Sure, then, ma'am, but it's no fault of mine, for wasn't you afther telling me the last thing afore you went out that a large loaf must bake one hour, an' I made three large loaves, so I baked them three hours jist; for what else could I do?"

How Smith Asked the Old Man.

Smith had just asked Mr. Thompson's daughter if she would give him a lift out of bachelordom, and she had said "Yes."

It therefore became absolutely necessaty to get the old gentleman's permission, so, as Smith said, the arrangements might be made to hop the conjugal twig.

Smith said he'd rather pop the interrogatory to all of old Thompson's daughters, and his sisters, and his lady cousins, and his aunt Hannah, in the country, and the whole of his family relations, than ask old Thompson. But it had to be done, and so he sat down and studied out a speech which he was to disgorge at old Thompson the very first time he got a shy at him. So Smith dropped in on him one Sunday evening, when all the family had meandered around to meeting, and found him doing a sum in beer measure.

"How are you, Smith?" said old Thompson, as the former walked in

C. B. BROCKWAY,

The Seceder's Candidate at Jerseytown.

After the adjournment of the meeting at Jerseytown on Saturday last, Chalfant appeared at Smith's Hotel and delivered himself of a foolish and rambling discourse from the porch. He went on for the greater part of an hour (subjected to some interruptions,) reciting his grievances and defining his position. He informed his hearers that he intended "to die game;" that Mr. Buckalew had not contradicted one of M'Ninch's statements; that the chairman of the State Committee had told him that if his statement of facts were correct, he was the nominee; that Montour county was entitled to the nomination and Mr. Buckalew had proved it in an article written three years ago; that Mr. Buckalew had not done his duty in the Senate in opposing and denouncing Radical misrule; that he (Mr. B.) had kept Dr. Brower in office for several years as Assistant Assessor; that Peter Ent had said no one should be nominated in Conference but Mr. B.; that Col. Cake, of bad political antecedents, was in favor of Mr. B's. nomination; and that Mr. B. had held high position and had an advantage of prestige over him as he was but a poor printer. He also delivered himself of a mass of twaddle upon the subject of Mr. Withington's change of vote in Conference. That change was not according to parliamentary law and usage, because it was inconsistent with a rule of the Pennsylvania House of Representatives and decisions founded thereon! The ancient practice of changing votes in the Roman Senate he made light of and Barclay's Digest (published in 1865 by order of Congress) was derided as an old musty work quite unworthy of attention. Besides, he said, Mr. Withington before changing his vote had gone to Mr. Buckalew's room and there a consultation had been held, with the door bolted, and the change of vote concocted. [The foolish man did not know when he said this that most of the persons in his audience had in, hand at the moment, slips of Mr. Meylert's statement flatly contradicting and overthrowing the whole of this story.] He said sundry things of little importance about the COLUMBIAN newspaper, and denounced Senator Jackson (whose Conferees did not support him in Conference) very strongly. He denied that he had paid M'Ninch money for his vote, but did not deny that others had done so, nor did he explain at all the suspicious and frequent intercourse between himself and M'Ninch before and pending the Conference as well as since.

As in these disclaimers he had omitted one important fact, Mr. Clark asked if it was not true that he (Chalfant) had had an interview with the known agent of the Philadelphia "ring" the night before the first meeting of the Conference at Northumberland. The question was an embarrassing one, but he was forced to acknowledge that such an interview had taken place. He retorted upon Mr. Clark by asserting that the latter had offered a certain sum to one of the Northumberland Conferees for his vote. Mr. C. branded this statement as an utter falsehood and demanded his authority for making it. Chalfant hesitated, but being hard pressed by the crowd for an answer, finally said his authority was M'Ninch; whereupon there was a scornful laugh all round. We believe the speaker himself smiled at the folly and futility of his own charge backed by such a witness.

The scene upon the whole was instructive and a pretty general conviction was produced that the seceder's candidate, judged by his own exhibition of himself, was not very well suited to a seat in the Senate. After Chalfant concluded Mr. Buckalew being loudly called for, came forward and spoke for a few minutes amid general attention. He said that the published statement made by M'Ninch of a private coversation between them prior to the late meeting of the late Conference, was untrue, and he stated clearly what actually passed between them on the occasion referred to. He said he would not speak in regard to the proceedings of the Conference. He was content to stand upon the full statements which had been published from the majority of members including that of Mr. Meylert, and he had no desire and he did not think it necessary to bring these matters into heated discussion upon the stump. He closed with an invocation to the audience against trading off votes and in favor of securing a full vote and an honest expression of public opinion.

Some additional remarks, of no importance, were made by Chalfant as the crowd were about dispersing. It was very evident that he had lost ground by his demonstration and driven off men from his support. We have been assured on good authority that a considerable number of men in Madison who were inclined at first to support Chalfant, are now openly opposed to him and regard his claims as preposterous.

AT the Democratic meeting on Wednesday night last a full township ticket was nominated, which will be found in the political column.

The Senatorship.

The 15th Senatorial District, composed of the counties of Northumberland, Montour, Columbia and Sullivan, is at this moment the battle ground between integrity and corruption. Mr. Buckalew, who has been tried by every test which can prove merit and condemn baseness, represents the former; while Thomas Chalfant (heretofore esteemed by us honorable) represents the latter. The issue is no longer to be hidden under words of dispute or falsehood concerning the nomination. It was made up before the Conference first met. Its form only and not its substance has changed since. As it is one of transcendent importance to all the people of this district, it shall be presented to them, in plain words—strong in their truth and earnest if not indignant in form.

Men in Philadelphia, affiliated with men elsewhere, turned their eyes early upon this Senatorial District as a point of danger to their unholy trade. They are known as men of the "ring" and it is their business to get rich and become powerful upon the corruption of the Legislature and the plunder of the people. They learned that it was likely that Mr. Buckalew would be chosen to the place he formerly filled and honored in the State Senate and sit there for three whole sessions their enemy and the enemy of all men like them, and with ability to make his opposition to them efficient and formidable. They read his remarks in the State Convention and his speech made later at Sunbury, with a perfect comprehension of the spirit which inspired them and of the objects of reform at which they pointed. They determined if possible to defeat his nomination, or at all events his election, and took steps for that purpose. (Their names are known and the men they employed are known.)

Now Chalfant appears upon the scene; a man of moderate abilities; poor; ambitious; with self-conceit greatly developed by former elections to and service in the Legislature. He was a fit subject for the manipulation of the "ring" and they turned their attention upon him as an instrument for their purpose. He held control of a party newspaper; he was pretty certain to carry the Convention of Montour for nomination, and he was a fresh man whose character had not yet been broken down in the service of the "ring." The selection was judicious and the instrument (or victim if you will) was found pliable and ready for his work.

We can now understand what was the reason for frequent journey by Chalfant to Philadelphia and Harrisburg before the Conference and even before the primary election in Montour. The negotiation was proceeding between the high contracting parties, and it is to be remembered that M'Ninch was visited at Catawissa by Chalfant before the Conference met, as was mentioned by us in our last number.

But we come to clearer ground. The night before the conference first met, Chalfant and the known agent of the "ring" had an interview together in the town of Northumberland. It was in the night time and Chalfant had driven down from Danville. He stopped at the Lee House while the agent registered at the Vankirk House. But they came together and after due time the agent went over to Sunbury and Chalfant went back to Danville. When and how this interview was projected and fixed, and all that passed between the parties, may not be fully known until that day of account when all human rascalities shall be revealed. The next morning (August 26th) Chalfant came upon the down train when it reached Danville, meek and innocent of look, and with his conferees accompanied the gentlemen from this county to Northumberland. At the latter place the agent of the "ring" was encountered at the railroad platform. He had come over from Sunbury and he met Chalfant and the others he knew, as if after a long separation. Presently he took occasion to explain to each of the latter that he happened to be at Sunbury on business, heard of the conference and just came over to look on, or see what was done. He remained all day, receiving at intervals several despatches by telegraph understood to be from Philadelphia. He discoursed in favor of Chalfant's nomination whenever he prudently could, and to one gentleman, supposed by him to be safe, declared early in the day that he could draw on a friend for $2,000 to secure it. Later, we believe, he exhibited a despatch with a remark that it was good for that sum. Finally, he inquired confidentially about Mr. Jackson, of Sullivan, whether he was a candidate in earnest, what amount he would probably take for his conferees, and whether he would "blow" on him (the agent) if he approached him for a purchase. Emboldened at last, he went to Mr. Jackson after midnight, made his infamous proposal and was spurned. What is authentically known of that post-midnight transaction, is the statement openly made by Mr. Jackson to the conference on the 4th of September, immediately after the nomination was made, that he had been offered a large sum to sell out Mr. Buckalew, and he expressed his readiness to fully expose the matter at popular meetings in our section, if sent for.

Upon his repulse, and probably also upon a timely admonition, the agent left Northumberland for Harrisburg in the night train, (we believe 2½ o'clock), and was next heard from in consultation with a particular person at Harrisburg who, during that second day, (Aug. 27th,) was in telegraphic correspondence with Chalfant. It might violate confidence if we were to give other very distinct proofs in our possession of Chalfant's association and complicity with the "ring" agent, and we shall forbear for the present. The foregoing points are sufficient for our purpose.

We now turn to M'Ninch, Chalfant's confederate from the outset, or at all events from a time anterior to the Conference. His statement to Martz that there were $3,000 to be made in the Conference and inquiring if he had better take it, was made before the Conference met, and immediately after M'Ninch had been in Danville. His frequent interviews with Chalfant pending the Conference and since, the message sent him by Chalfant before the last meeting, and the confident statements of the latter regarding his eventual vote, all point to his corruption. But there are two other facts still more convincing. The first is, that he went down to Danville in the night before the last meeting of the Conference, to inform Chalfant of the report or design of re-introducing Mr. Pursel into the Conference. This expedition proves distinctly confederacy and a common object between the parties. Again, immediately after the nomination, M'Ninch prepared a circular and printed it, in which Mr. Buckalew was denounced and belied. The latter had then given him no provocation for that assault, and it must have been made in due execution of his engagement to Chalfant and the "ring." In fact, that engagement apparently extends to the whole canvass, and does not seem to have been limited to a treacherous vote upon the nomination. Finally, the corruption of his Conference vote is shown by the facts that it was given against his instructions—without notice to his candidate or his colleague—upon a ballot when his county voted last—and just after distinct notice to him that the Northumberland conferees were about to vote for the candidate of this county.

The case is complete against him without direct proof of his declarations by Mr. Martz or any one else. But those declarations were made to more than one person and they are decisive. The only judicious explanation of them—which however false might have been plausible—that they were not made in earnest, is now entirely shut off. For by his obtaining a direct disclaimer or denial from Martz, by practising upon his weakness, he excludes entirely any innocent interpretation of his language. He would not wish to have the words denied if they were innocent or harmless.

Poor House.

The following correspondence will explain itself.

To Messrs J. A. Funston, J. Schuyler and B. F. Hartman. Gentlemen.

Many of our citizens are inquiring about the question of a Poor House. Some townships are being called upon to vote on the question. Will you give the public, information, through the papers, as to the expense to your township, and the saving? And also, what would be the cost to each one of the eight or ten surrounding townships, if they should come in now?

Yours respectfully,

ISAAC LEIDY,
WM. HOWEL.

ANSWER.

BLOOMSBURG, Sept. 28, 1869.

TO MESS. ISAAC LEIDY AND WM. HOWELL.

GENTLEMEN.—Your favor of the 25th inst., is at hand. In reply we would say that the Poor tax of Bloom township has during several years past, been one per cent. upon our valuation, or about two county rates. Under the Poor House law, we, in May last, purchased a farm, with the approval of the Court, for the sum of twelve thousand five hundred dollars. Upon this farm we have erected a large brick house with slate roof, at a cost of three thousand, three hundred and forty-five dollars, having eighteen rooms, besides cellar kitchen, in addition to the frame house which was on the land. About one thousand dollars, have been expended in stock and out-fit. Total $16,845. The expenses for our services as Commission, including the purchase of farm and building, will not make one hundred dollars. The number of paupers upon our township, before the purchase of the farm, averaged about fifty. But three adults, have been in the Poor House, one of these lately deceased, leaving but two inmates, all the children having been put out, to good places for homes. We think that with all the disadvantages of a late start, and building, the farm will meet all the expenses of the poor for the year. Then two and a half years assessment upon Bloom township, at presisely the old rate, will pay for the property and stop our tax.

As to other townships coming in under the provisions of the law, we would say, that if seven or eight of the neighboring townships vote to come in, it will require from each one of them, about one county rate and a half, to make them equal with Bloom. And this would not be paid all in one year. Any township coming in now, will vote for Commissioners in our places, at the next fall election.

Should the remaining townships of the county, become convinced that it would be to their interest to come in, a very small expense would render the present buildings sufficient, and we have also a written refusal of adjoining land, at a moderate price, sufficient for the comfortable support of the Poor for the whole county. And the rate for these townships, to be applied to the improvment and additional purchase, would not exceed the total of one county rate and a half for each township.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN A. FUNSTON,
JACOB SCHUYLER,
B. F. HARTMAN,
} Commissioners.

P. S. Any ten tax payers in our township, calling on the constable to post a notice for a vote upon the question "Poor House" or "No Poor House" can have the question voted upon at the coming election.

Senatorial.

The Democrats of this county have thus far acted with great prudence in regard to the difficulty existing in this Senatorial district. Most of them treat the matter in a jocular way, and do not permit themselves to get excited or to indulge in any controversy or heated argument on the subject. Such a course is commendable and wise. We can see no reason why an issue between the private or political interests of two men should be permitted to convulse a whole District, or do the slightest injury to the State or local tickets in either of the counties composing it. If there are any who cannot agree as to who is nominated let them agree to disagree on that, but cease to agitate, and turn their harmonious energies and united labor to the success of Packer, Pershing and their respective county tickets. If the Radicals shall confront us with a formidable Senatorial candidate of their own, prudence would dictate that the Democratic vote of the entire District should be concentrated as nearly as possible upon one man. Our Conferees, and the Standing Committee of this county, have committed the party here to the support of Mr. Buckalew. In the balance of the District (except Montour) the situation appears to be the same, and, in our judgment, to east a solid vote for him will be the only way to prevent the election of a confirmed Radical, should they nominate one. It would be better as regards candidates that the personal preferences of every Democrat in the District should be given up rather than that through our division the 15th Amendment to the Constitution and the power of Radicalism should stave off reversal and live.—Northumberland County Democrat.

Letter from Michael Meylert, Secretary of the late Senatorial Conference.

Hon. Charles R. Buckalew,

DEAR SIR:—I have read carefully the statements of the different members of the recent Senatorial Conference in which you were nominated as our candidate for this district.

I have been absent from home for the last ten or twelve days returning on last Saturday, and while the subject is pretty thoroughly ventilated there are a few points of discrepancy to which I would desire to add my testimony.

It has been asserted that Mr. Withington gave no intimation of his desire or intention to change his vote, until he had retired from the Conference and visited Mr. Buckalew's room. The facts on that point are as follows: The 202d ballot had been ordered, and we were all taken by surprise at Mr. M'Ninch's vote, and before the result of the vote had been announced by either the chairman or myself, Col. Deegan moved an adjournment for five minutes, which having carried, the members generally were leaving the room, and Mr. Withington having got near the door turned to me (I was sitting at the table as Secretary and copying the minutes for publication,) and said "Mr. Meylert I change my vote." I said for whom do you vote? He replied "for Withington,"—and then turning again, left the room. M'Ninch, who had not yet left his chair, then came to the table and took a chair by me. I said to him "Mr. M'Ninch, I was never more surprised in my life than at your vote,"—"probably a few votes more would have nominated the man you came here to nominate." He replied "that he knew nothing of that," (though in his published statement he admits that he had been so informed) "that we had had a long and arduous session, that it was getting late, and he desired to end the matter; that somebody must be disappointed and he had concluded to take the responsibility." But said he "I wish the nomination to be fair and square, and I will vote to allow Mr. Withington to change his vote" and we will all start fair again." (He having been present when Mr. Withington came to me (before leaving the rooom,) to request that he be permitted to change his vote, none of us three having left the room.) Mr. M'Ninch then left, and I remained in the room copying the proceedings, until the Conference re-assembled. After the Conference was called to order, all of the Conferees being present, I mentioned Mr. Withington's desire to change his vote, and on a vote being taken, leave was granted with only the dissenting vote of Mr. Miles. I then called his (Withingtons) name (as Secretary) and he voted for Withington. The 202d ballot was then for the first time declared and was for Buckalew 1, Chalfant 4, Withington 1, Jackson 2.

The chair having announced the vote, directed the ballots to proceed, which was done accordingly. In some of the statements the fact of Mr. Miles of Montour having moved an adjournment of the conference to Bloomsburg to the 15th of September, after the 206th ballot had been taken, is denied. On that point in addition to the official report, I will state what occurred informally. After the 206th ballot had been taken Mr. Chalfant was brought into the room by Mr. Miles, and there being some informal discussion participated in by Mr. Chalfant as to the state of the conference, I stated to Mr. Chalfant the fact that Mr. Miles had made such motion, which took Mr. Chalfant entirely by surprise, and on his turning to Mr. Miles for an explanation, Mr. Miles admitted the fact, and excused himself to Mr. Chalfant by saying, "that he was so much excited he hardly knew what he did," (and as this was exactly his state of mind, it may account for some discrepancy in his report of the proceedings,) "but he wished to quit the Conference?

I said nothing to Mr. M'Ninch that looked like an admission of Mr. Chalfant's nomination, except my expression of surprise at his vote. He volunteered the remark "that he would vote to permit Withington to change his vote and all start fair" before he left the room; on his return and while the subject was under discussion, he made no objection, nor did he deny his (Mr. Withington's) right to change. In conversation he admitted that he had done wrong in changing his vote without consulting his colleague and giving him notice of his intended change. I do not now remember anything further that would be of use. Should there be any point in which my testimony would aid in putting this matter truthfully before the public please inform me.

I remain Yours Very Respectfully,

MICHAEL MEYLERT,

Bloomsburg State Normal School and Literary Institute.

This Institution is now thoroughly organized and offers excellent advantages to young men and women who desire to fit themselves for Commercial Business, Teaching, or to prepare for College or the Professions. The Principal, Henry Carver, A. M. is too well known as one of the Educators of youth to need a recommendation. He will give the Normal School especially the benefit of his eminent success as a teacher.

Isaac O. Best, A. M., Assistant Principal, is a graduate of Hamilton College and has been eminently successful in teaching the Latin and Greek languages, and is a first class Disciplinarian. Miss Sarah A. Carver has been the Preceptress of the school from its inception and has few equals as a teacher and manager of young Ladies. J. W. Ferree, A. M. Prof. of Higher Mathematics and Natural Sciences has had large experience as a teacher and is a gentleman of fine culture.

E. A. Ludwig, L. L. D. Prof. German Language and Drawing, and Assistant Teacher of Greek, brings to his department the energy and Scholarship of a graduate of a European University and those who wish to study the Modern Languages have here an excellent opportuity of taking lessons of one who speaks most of them in their purity. Miss Mary E. Beaman, Assistant Preceptress is a graduate of the Oswego Normal School, and is fast proving that she has not attended that Training School in vain. Prof. F. M. Bates, Supt. of Modern School, and Miss Julia Guest, Assistant, give evidence of their fitness, in the fact that their department is full of industrious pupils. Prof. W. A. Williams, recently manager of the Eastern Business College at Bangor Me. has charge of the Commercial Department and will make it in all respects equal to any Commercial College, either for such a wish to confine themselves to that course or for those who wish to study the Commercial Course in connection with other studies.

James Brown, Assistant Teacher of Mathematics and English Grammar is a young man of culture and a thorough teacher. Miss Alice M. Carver has had charge of the Piano Music, from the commencement of the School, and the department now employs two teachers all the time. Miss Nettie Powell is Assistant. Mrs. Iattie L. Best, a graduate of one of the best Musical Academies of Boston, is eminent both as a teacher of vocal Music and a singer. We are confident that those who desire to make music a specialty, will find as good advantages in this school as in any of the Musical Academies in the large cities, and at less than one-fourth the cost. The Trustees congratulate themselves upon having collected a Faculty for their school of great merit, having spared no pains or expense necessary to secure teachers of the highest merit in every department. We can most earnestly recommend the school to the confidence of the public. The Boarding Hall is a magnificent Building warmed throughout by steam and furnished in the best and most comfortable manner from kitchen to chambers. Most of the Faculty board in the Hall, and have their rooms on the same halls with the Students, so as to render any assistance the students may need out of school hours. No person can visit this boarding hall without going away feeling that he has visited one of the most happy and well organized families that he has ever seen. Unlike most Boarding Schools the tables are furnished to the entire satisfaction of the Students; and the table etiquette is such as to cultivate politeness, and fit students for the civilities of life, rather than selfishness. The next term commences Oct. 18th 1869. Students are admitted at any time; for terms &c., send for Catalogue.

CENTRALIA, Oct. 1, 1869.

EDITOR COLUMBIAN,

Bradley is making a great prating, because the Hon. Charles R. Buckalew is now willing to accept of an office a grade lower than the one which, lately, he so honorably filled. I suppose he don't recollect that Gov. Sayder after serving as Governor of Pennsylvania nine years accepted the same office for which Mr. Buckalew is now a candidate. William Wilkins after being a Representative in Congress, a U.S.Senator, a foreign Minister Plenipotentiary, accepted the same honorable office for which Mr. Buckalew is now a candidate. John Hickman, a Radical, was a long time in Congress, then went back to the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania. John Quincy Adams was once President of the United States and after his Presidential term went back to Congress to the end of his days. These gentlemen did not consider themselves disgraced by serving their country in a little lower capacity; but most of this took place before Bradley's swaddling clothes were dry, so that he don't recollect.

VOX.

TAKE OUT YOUR DAMS.—Complaints are again made that persons living along the Susquehanna are violating the law by putting fish dams in the river to prevent the passage of fish. We call the attention of trespassers to the fish law passed by the legislature of 1868, which, among other things, says:

"It shall not be lawful for any person or persons to build, extend or place any fish basket, fish trap or other device, permanent or temporary, across or at any place in the Susquehanna river."

* * * "And any person offending against the provision of this section, their aiders or abettors, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, on conviction thereof, shall be fined in any sum not less than one hundred dollars, and be imprisoned at the discretion of the court for a period of not more than twelve months; one half of the fine above mentioned to be paid to the informer or complainant."

Receipts of "THE COLUMBIAN" for Aug. 1869.

Let us see a moment, Thomas. When the COLUMBIAN started, the Democratic majority in Columbia county was about 1,500; now is 2,000. At the same time the Democratic majority in Montour was about 350, and now about 370. In other words we have gained 0 and Montour 20. A little of the same od of "splitting" would do no harm in ontour.

It is recognized as a legitimate ground of pity ...hat one has lost a limb or speech or eyesight. ...t appeals at once to our sympathies to see a ...atient sufferer by the wayside holding up a ...laimed arm or wearing the sign, "I am ...lind." But how would it be if the placard ...ead, "I am a fool?" But is not that a mis- ...fortune, of all others, most pitiable, and one ...hich directly or indirectly lays the public ...ost frequently under tribute? It would ...ardly do, however, to recognize this as an ...pen claim to our relief, or we should have ...pplicants who could plead this appeal filling ...ur town, as "thick as autumnal leaves which ...rew the brooks in Vallombrosa."

DAVID EVANS, a pauper, who had been for years blind and helpless, died at the Poor House of this township on Saturday last and was buried on the following day.

THE calm statement of Mr. Meylert the Secretary of the late Senatorial Conference, completely disposes of M'Ninch. It establishes the fact that Withington asked to change his vote before leaving the room. Also that M'Ninch voted in favor of the change, and did not consider the 202d ballot as final.

WON'T some one, who takes an interest in the matter, teach our Republican friends how to spell the name of their Congressman from this District? For further particulars see hand bills of their meeting at which he is to speak to night.

THE publication of our series of articles on the "Columbia County Invasion," will remain suspended until after the election. There is not now time for their composition, nor space in our columns for their insertion. But in due time they will be resumed and concluded. Until then the subject will keep.

THE JERSEYTOWN MEETING.—This meeting was held pursuant to notice on Saturday last, the audience assembling at three o'clock in the School House yard of the town, the speaking being from a temporary platform. Gen. Brindle of Muncy spoke first and mainly upon the proposed XVth amendment to the Constitution of the U. S. The subject of suffrage and the action of the legislative majority at Harrisburg, at the last session, were handled by him with much spirit and effect. Mr. Buckalew followed. After some general remarks he proceeded to point out the necessity of reform in the State government and particularly in the Legislature and in the administration of the finances of the State. He then recited the attempt which had been made by certain interested parties to control the late Senatorial nomination, reading papers in confirmation of his statement, and concluded with a strong appeal to the audience to support the honorable and lawful action of the majority of the Conference and to resent improper and corrupt interference from abroad with the affairs of this District. A number of persons were present from Danville and other parts of Montour county. Lewis Schuyler, Esq. presided assisted by Richard Demott, Madison Twp., Jacob Hallis, Hemlock Twp., John K. Girton, Bloom, Samuel Polick Anthony Twp., Montour co., and John Thresher, Fishingcreek as Vice Presidents and Samuel Johnson, Madison Twp, and John Mordan, Mt. Pleasant as Secretaries.

OUR readers have observed that we rarely praise patent medicines, and that we advertise only the very best of them. But now, the remarkable recovery of Mrs. Rice, of Canastota, from her distressing and almost helpless scrofulous disease, which is known throughout the community, and unquestionably the effect of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, leads us to publish without reserve the remarkable efficacy of this medicine. We do this in the interest of the afflicted. Any remedy which can so effectually "raise one from the dead," should be universally known; and we wish it may be universally as successful as it has been in the case of Mrs. Rice.—[Daily Journal, Syracuse.

Their system of doing business has been examined by the authorities and a DECISION rendered from the Internal Revenue department at Washington dated Nov. 4th, 1868, declaring their business perfectly fair and legitimate and entirely different from the numerous gift enterprise. Of course all do not get watches, blankets, &c., for One Dollar, but in every large Club, one of these articles are sold for One dollar, as an extra inducement, and some member of the club has the chance of obtaining it. A new feature introduced by this enterprising firm, is to pay their agents in either cash or merchandise and to pre-pay the express charges. No better opportunity can be offered to either Ladies or Gentlemen, having leisure time, than to form clubs for this firm.

FORTY THOUSAND CASES OF goods were shipped from our house in One Year, to families, estate, and merchants, in every part of the country, from Maine to California, amounting in value to over

ONE MILLION DOLLARS.

Our facilities for transacting this immense business are better than ever before. We have agents in all the principal cities to purchase goods from the Manufacturers, Importers, and others for Cash, and often at an immense sacrifice from the original cost of production.

Our stock consists, in part, of the following goods:—

Shawls, Blankets, Quilts, Cottons, Ginghams, Dress Goods, Table Linen, Towels, Hosiery, Gloves Skirts, Corsets, &c., &c.

Silver-Plated ware, Spoons plated on Nickel Silver, Dessert Forks, five-bottle plated Castors, Britannia Ware, Glass Ware, Table and Pocket Cutlery, in great variety.

Elegant French and German Fancy Goods, Beautiful Photograph Albums, the newest and choicest styles in Morocco and Velvet Bindings.

Morocco Traveling Bags, Handkerchief and Glove Boxes, &c.

Gold and Plated Jewelry, of the newest styles. We have a new order arrangements with some of the leading Publishing Houses, that will enable us to sell the standard and latest works of popular authors at about one-half the regular prices:—such as Byron, Moore, Burns, Milton, and Tennyson's Works, in full Gilt and Cloth Bindings,—and hundreds of others. These, and everything else for

ONE DOLLAR FOR EACH ARTICLE.

We do not offer a single article of merchandise that can be sold by regular dealers at our price. We do not ask you to buy goods from us unless we can sell them cheaper than you can obtain them in any other way,—while the greater part of our goods are sold at about

ONE-HALF THE REGULAR RATES.

We want good reliable agents in every part of the Country. By employing your spare time to form clubs and sending us orders, you can obtain the most liberal commissions, either in Cash or Merchandise, and all goods sent by us will be as represented, and we guarantee satisfaction to every one dealing with our house.

Agents should collect ten cents from each customer and forward to us in advance, for Descriptive Checks of the good we sell.

The holders of the Checks have the privilege of either purchasing the article thereon described, or of exchanging for any article mentioned on our Catalogue, numbering over 150 different articles,—not one of which can be purchased in the usual way for the same money.

The advantages of first sending for Checks are these: We are constantly buying small lots of very valuable goods, which are not on our catalogues, and for which we issue checks till all are sold; besides, in every large club we will put eleven Watches, Quilts, Blankets, Dress Patterns, or some other articles of value, giving some members of the club an opportunity of purchasing an article for about one quarter of its value.

In every order amounting to over $50, accompanied by the cash, the Agent may retain $2.50, and in every order of over $100, $5.00 may be retained to

PAY THE EXPRESS CHARGES.

This offer is more especially to assist Agents in the Western and Southern States, but is open to all customers.

COMMISSIONS:

Agents will be paid ten per cent. in Cash or Merchandise, when they FILL UP THEIR ENTIRE CLUB, for which below we give a partial List of Commissions:

For an order of $30, from a club of Thirty, we will pay the Agent, as commission, 28 yds. Brown or Bleached Sheeting, Good Dress Pattern, Wool Squa. e Shawl, French Cassimere Pants and Vest Pattern, Fine Large White Counterpane, etc., etc., or $3.00 in cash.

For an order of $50, from a Club of Fifty, we will pay the Agent as Commission, 45 yards Sheeting, One pair heavy Wool Blankets, Poplin Dress pattern, Handsome wool Square Shawl, Silver-Case Watch, etc., etc., or $5.00 in cash.

LET US PROTECT OURSELVES.—The physical structure of the strongest human being is vulnerable everywhere. Our bodies are endowed by nature with a certain negative power, which protects them, to some extent, from unwholesome influences; but this protection is imperfect and cannot be safely relied on in unhealthy regions, or under circumstances of more than ordinary danger. Therefore, it is wisdom; it is prudence; it is common sense to provide against such contingencies, by taking an antidote in advance; in other words, by fortifying the system with HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS—the most complete protective against all the epidemic and endemic maladies that has ever been administered in any country. As a remedy for Dyspepsia, there is no medicine that will compare with it. Whoever suffers the pangs of indigestion, anywhere on the face of the earth where HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS can be procured, does so voluntarily; for, as surely as truth exists, this invaluable tonic and alterative would restore his disordered stomach to a healthy condition. To the nervous it is also especially recommended, and in cases of confirmed constipation it also affords speedy and permanent relief.

In all cases of fever and ague the BITTERS is more potent than any amount of quinine, while the most dangerous cases of bilious fever yield to its wonderful properties. Those who have tried the medicine will never use another, for any of the ailments which the HOSTETTER BITTERS professes to subdue. To those who have not made the experiment we cordially recommend an early application to the BITTERS whenever they are stricken by disease of the digestive organs.

We do not wish to inform you, reader, that Dr. Wonderful, or any other man, has discovered a remedy that cures Consumption, when the lungs are half consumed, in short, will cure all diseases whether of mind, body or estate, make men live forever, and leave death to play for want of work; and is designed to make our sublunary sphere a blissful paradise, to which Heaven itself shall be but a side show. You have heard enough of that kind of humbuggery, and we do not wonder that you have by this time become disgusted with it. But when I tell you that Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy will positively cure the worst cases of Catarrh, I only assert that which thousands can testify to. Try it and you will be convinced. I will pay $500 Reward for a case of Catarrh that I cannot cure.

FOR SALE BY MOST DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

PRICE ONLY 50 CENTS.

Sent by mail post paid for sixty cents; Four packages $2.00, or one dozen for $5.00. Send a two cent stamp for Dr. Sage's pamphlet on Catarrh. Address the Proprietor, R. V. PIERCE, M. D., Oct. 1,'69-3m. BUFFALO, N. Y.

DOMESTIC ECONOMY!

CAMPILLION CARPET!

A new, cheap durable, healthy, and B FLOOR COVERING!

A substitute for oil-cloth at one-third the cost,

This carpet is produced by a peculiar combination of strong, heavy paper, printed in ornamental colors, and coated with a tough, elastic, water proof enamel which receives the paper, protects the colors and paper endures washing, and renders the carpet bright and beautiful in the extreme. Its advantages are as follows:—

Its cost is only 37½ cts. a yard.

It is made in 4 yards wide, and is available to all sizes of rooms without a seam.

It is easily laid down on the floor, requiring no more labor and trouble; by re-coating with the Campillion Enamel occasionally as the case may require, (which costs but a trifle,) it will last indefinitely, even an age, and always appear new and bright; in its use no reliance whatever is placed upon the paper for wear, but exclusively upon the water-proof coating, the figured paper being used only to secure the colors. Paper has recently been used for a variety of purposes, even for trunks, roofs, flour bags and wearing apparel, but the first attempt, either in Europe or America, to convert it into carpet or floor covering, all concede it to be an entire success!

We have purchased the right for columbia county and can furnish the carpet to merchants at manufacturers prices,

PEARS.

FARMER'S COLUMN.

THOROUGH CULTIVATION THE FARMER'S CREED.—There is one thing in which farmers are certainly improving. They cultivate their corn much more thoroughly than formerly. The old plan here was to cultivate it once both ways, and then hoe it, and then, in the course of a few weeks, cultivate it again, throwing the soil to the hills, and then dress it up with the hoes. And this was considered rather extra culture; it was what farmers aimed at, and they rather congratulated themselves when they could accomplish it. Now, thanks, mainly, as I believe, to the teaching of the agricultural press, the idea of a certain number, of "cultivatings" being necessary is given and the more energetic farmers cultivate as often as there are any weeds to kill, and many intelligent and experienced men who have tried the plan cultivate once a week or ten days whether there are any weeds or not. This constant stirring of the land develops the plant-food in the soil, and also keeps it moist, and, especially on a rather heavy loam, adds from twenty-five to fifty per cent to the crop, while the land is in far better condition for the subsequent crops of barley, wheat and clover. I believe in "clover and plaster." I believe in making rich manure, and a good deal of it. I believe in carefully saving and applying it, and also in using artificial manures, and salt and ashes; but before all, and above all, and beyond all, I believe in under draining and thorough cultivation. I have no heart to talk about scientific agricultural questions, although I read nearly all that is written on all subjects. The one thing that we most need, as farmers, is to be convinced of the importance and advantage of killing weeds and making the land mellow.—Am. Agriculturalist.

Fences.

The best and cheapest kind of fencing is the great desideratum of which the farmer is in quest from time immemorial. Beyond a doubt, wherever a permanent line of division or enclosure can be drawn, a live hedge of hawthorn, buck thorn, or osage is superior to any other, when it has been fairly established. Nothing can exceed the beauty of the English hawthorn in Spring and Autumn. In the months of May and June the hedges are covered with the white blossoms, which load the air with perfume, and in Autumn they are red with the ripe berries which afford abundant food to the little birds, and are in fact, eaten by children, though they are rather mealy and insipid. In our country, where fields are often divided, and timber has heretofore been abundant, less attention has been paid to the mode of enclosing grounds, than in the older countries of Europe, but we shall have to come to it, before long. The forests are disappearing, sadly to the discredit of our forecast, for we are already suffering in some of the old settlements even in this country, for the want of wood, not so much as fuel, for coal will supply a more economical heat, but suffering, on account of the change in the climate, superinduced by the destruction of the forests. Why the mountains should be denuded for the sake of the arable land, which they afford, we cannot understand, in view of the injurious effects upon the health of the surrounding country. The deprivation of the immense amount of carbolic acid which is supplied by the forest trees, finds a poor compensation in the additional surface of land offered to the plough.

The Care of Harness.

Perhaps nothing on a farm better repays the care bestowed on it than harness; few things go so quickly to the bad from neglect.

Now if to the bare consideration of economy (for the article in question is costly,) we add a little for appearance-sake in nicely kept harness, something for the comfort of animals working in well-fitting, flexible leather, and what value you please for the safety to life and limb of the owner and beast, we need not apologize for asking attention to this subject as important.

Harness ought to be washed about once a month with a sponge and Castile soap—one strap at a time—and the soap removed by a clear-water sponge as soon as the surface is cleansed.

Twice a year it should be oiled, or oftener if much used and frequently wet and dry. Unless you can obtain perfectly pure neat's foot oil, (such as Peter Cooper's,) make it yourself. Take the feet of a beef, crush the bones well with a sledge or axe, and boil them in a large pot of water for 12 hours. Make two quarts of tallow from fried beef or mutton suet, and pour it into a four-quart can (which should have a lid to keep out mice) and place it on the stove. Add a lump of pure yellow wax as large as a hen's egg, stirring as it melts. Then fill up the can with neat's foot oil, and removing it from the fire, continue to stir until the intermixture is thoroughly complete. This, when cold, will be of about the same consistence as hog's lard. Keep in the can a bit of sponge always ready for use. It ought to be when it first goes into the grease, as it will remain more flexible always afterwards than if greased when dry.

Leather which has become dry and horny through long neglect, will receive no benefit from grease applied to it in its dry and hard condition. You must not only have grease of the right sort, but must know how to use it. First, then, take the harness apart wherever it can be unbuckled. If hard, soak it in clear water (not warmer than milk freshly drawn) for several hours. Then wash the pieces as directed with Castile soap, and work them in the hands until they are soft and pliant; and if in very bad condition, this will require care and patience. Hang in a room where they will not dry too rapidly. When about half dry, apply the grease liberally on both sides, and again hang up, for at least one day if possible.

A white crust like stearine will be left on the surface when the leather is dry, which can be removed with a dry coarse cloth. For common work harness nothing more will be needed, but carriage harness may be again washed with a sponge, and wiped with a dry chamois skin.

Boots and shoes, of cow hide, kip or calf-skin, ought to be treated in the same way several times a year. If the surface is washed with Castile soap, they will take a superior polish after the second brushing. Try the comfort of such boots, and I shall then be able to appeal to your understandings, O farmers, as well as your interest, when I urge you not to neglect "The Care of Harness."—Country Gentleman.

THE YOUNG FOLKS.

Ashputtel.

THE wife of a rich man fell sick; and when she felt that her end drew nigh, she called her only daughter to her bedside, and said, "Always be a good girl, and I will look down from heaven and watch over you." Soon afterwards she shut her eyes and died, and was buried in the garden; and the little girl went every day to her grave and wept, and was always good and kind to all about her. And the snow fell and spread a beautiful white covering over the grave; but by the time the spring came, and the sun had melted it away again, her father had married another wife. This new wife had two daughters of her own, that she brought home with her; they were fair in face but foul at heart, and it was now a sorry time for the poor little girl. "What does the good-for-nothing thing want in the parlor?" said they; "they who would eat bread should first earn it: away with the kitchen-maid!" Then they took away her fine clothes, and gave her an old grey frock to put on, and laughed at her, and turned her into the kitchen.

There she was forced to do hard work; to rise early before daylight, to bring the water, to make the fire, to cook, and to wash. Besides that, the sisters plagued her in all sorts of ways, and laughed at her. In the evening when she was tired, she had no bed to lie down on, but was made to lie by the hearth among the ashes; and as this, of course made her always dusty and dirty, they called her Ashputtel.

It happened once that the father was going to the fair, and asked his wife's daughters what he should bring. "Fine clothes," said the first; "Pearls and diamonds," cried the second. "Now, child," said he to his own daughter, "what will you have?" "The first twig dear father, that brushes against your hat when you turn your face to come homewards," said she. Then he bought for the first two the fine clothes and pearls and diamonds they had asked for: and on his way home, as he rode through a green copse, a hazel twig brushed against him, and almost pushed off his hat; so he broke it off and brought it away; and when he got home he gave it to his daughter. Then she took it, and went to her mother's grave and planted it there; and cried so much that it was watered with her tears, and there it grew and became a fine tree. Three times every day she went to it and cried; and soon a little bird came and built its nest upon the tree, and talked with her, and watched over her, and brought her whatever she wished for.

Now it happened that the king of that land held a feast, which was to last three days; and out of those who came to it his son was to choose a bride for himself. Ashputtel's two sisters were asked to come; so they called her up, and said, "Now, comb our hair, brush our shoes, and tie our sashes for us, for we are going to dance at the king's feast." Then she did as she was told; but when all was done she could not help crying, for she thought to herself, she should so have liked to have gone with them to the ball; and at last she begged her mother very hard to let her go. "You, Ashputtel!" said she; "you who have nothing to wear, no clothes at all, and cannot even dance—you want to go to the ball?" And when she kept on begging, she said at last, to get rid of her, "I will throw this dish-full of peas into the ash-heap, and if in two hours' time you have picked them all out, you shall go to the feast too."

Then she threw the peas down among the ashes; but the little maiden ran out at the back door into the garden, and cried out—

"Hither, hither, through the sky,
Turtle-doves and linnets, fly!
Blackbird, thrush, and chaffinch gay,
Hither, hither, haste away!
One and all come help me, quick!
Haste ye, haste ye!—pick, pick, pick!"

Then first came two white doves, flying in at the kitchen window; next came two turtle-doves; and after them came all the little birds under heaven, chirping and fluttering in; and they flew down into the ashes. And the little doves stooped their heads down and set to work, pick, pick, pick; and then the others began to pick, pick, pick: and among them all they soon picked out all the good grain, and put it into a dish, but left the ashes. Long before the end of the hour the work was quite done, and all flew out again at the windows.

Then Ashputtel brought the dish to her mother, overjoyed at the thought that now she should go to the ball. But the mother said, "No, no! you slut, you have no clothes, and cannot dance; you shall not go." And when Ashputtel begged very hard to go, she said, "If you can in one hour's time pick two of those dishes of peas out of the ashes, you shall go too." And thus she thought she should at last get rid of her. So she shook two dishes of peas into the ashes.

But the little maiden went out into the garden at the back of the house, and cried out as before—

"Hither, hither, through the sky,
Turtle-doves and linnets, fly!
Blackbird, thrush, and chaffinch gay,
Hither, hither, haste away!
One and all come help me, quick!
Haste ye, haste ye!—pick, pick, pick!"

Then first came two white doves in at the kitchen window: next came two turtle-doves; and after them came all the little birds under heaven, chirping and hopping about. And they flew down into the ashes; and the little doves put their heads down and set to work, pick, pick, pick; and then the others began, pick, pick, pick; and they put all the good grain into the dishes, and left all the ashes. Before half an hour's time all was done, and out they flew again. And then Ashputtel took the dishes to her mother, rejoicing to think that she should now go to the ball. But her mother said, "It is all of no use, you cannot go; you have no clothes, and cannot dance, and you would only put us to shame:" and so she went with her two daughters to the ball.

Now when all were gone, and nobody left at home, Ashputtel went sorrowfully and sat down under the hazel-tree, and cried out—

"Shake, shake, hazel-tree,
Gold and silver over me!"

Then her friend the bird flew out of the tree, and brought a gold and silver dress for her, and slippers of spangled silk: and she put them on, and followed her sisters to the feast. But they did not know her, and thought it must be some strange princess, she looked so fine and beautiful in her rich clothes; and they never once thought of Ashputtel, taking it for granted that she was safe at home in the dirt.

DON'T INTEND ASTONISHING THE WORLD PUMPING OIL, BUT WATER.

KAY'S PUMPS,

USED AND ADMIRED BY EVERY ONE.

Especially the ladies, being truly the ladies' friend, working much lighter and easier than the old tree pump. They don't make such a slop and don't collect so much ice around the floor in the winter, the water not running so long after pumping. Having taken the first premium at every fair they have been exhibited; also recommended by all insurance Companies, on account of getting out more water in less time and with less labor, they throwing a barrel of water a minute. All we ask is a trial, and we are confident we can please you.

Again: It is more simple, it having no lower box packed with tow and tallow, which is the greatest trouble in the tree pump. Another great advantage is, that when you get a new pump you are not compelled to drink for a whole year

PITCH PINE OR BLACK OAK WATER.

Our pump being made of wild cucumber wood, which is free from taste, also lasts longer in water. It has also many other advantages, which can only be found out by using them. They have been in use in the northern part of the State for twenty years; selling rapidly everywhere.

DRUGS & MEDICINES.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

For restoring Gray Hair to its natural Vitality and Color

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthful, and effectual for restoring the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a

HAIR DRESSING,

nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

PRICE $1.00.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

For all the purposes of a Laxative

Perhaps no one medicine is so universally required by everybody as a cathartic, nor was ever any believed so universally adopted into use, in every country and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative Pill. The obvious reason is, that it is a more reliable and far more effectual remedy than any other. Those who have tried it, know that it cured them; those who have not, know that it cures their neighbors and friends, and all know that what it does once it does always—that it never fails through any fault or neglect of its composition. We have thousands upon thousands of certificates of their remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such cures are known in every neighborhood, and we need not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates; containing neither calomel or any deleterious drug, they may be taken with safety by any body. Their sugar coating preserves them ever fresh and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

Minute directions are given in the wrapper on the box, for the following complaints, which these Pills rapidly cure:—

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression a large dose should be taken as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a Dinner Pill, take one or two Pills to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.
